Order of Court.

Kent, P.J.

Rule 15, Section 2, Rules of Court for the Thirtieth Judicial District, Crawford County, Pennsylvania, provides, inter alia, as follows:

To correct the oversight and to provide a Board of Law Examiners which may legally organize and function under provisions of the rule, we enter the following Order.

Habeas Corpus for the custody of Joyce Ann Briggs, minor child of petitioner and respondent

Now, April 5, 1943, upon presentation of the foregoing petition it is hereby ordered that a writ of Habeas Corpus be issued, directed to Madeline M. Briggs, commanding her forthwith to bring before the Court, the body of the said Joyce Ann Briggs, and to show cause, if any she has, why the said Joyce Ann Briggs should not be delivered into the custody of her father, Clark M. Briggs. Return and for hearing forthwith, unless the parties with the consent of the Court agree upon a time for the hearing.

(See petition filed.)

Per Curiam

Now, April 12, 1943, after hearing had and after consideration of the evidence offered before the Court, in the above entitled case, we are of the opinion that the best interests of the minor child, Joyce Ann Briggs will best be served by awarding the custody to the father, Clark M. Briggs, with whom the child has been living and cared for from about September of 1940, up to March 25, 1943. This custody of the child to the father is awarded with the reservation of the right and privilege of the mother, Madeline M. Briggs, to visit the child at any and all proper times and to take the child into her possession for periods of time as may be agreed upon between the father and mother with the understanding that the child will be returned to the home of the father after the visitations not later than nine o'clock in the evening. The child is not to be removed from Crawford County, Pennsylvania, the jurisdiction of this Court, without leave of Court so to do, by either the father or the mother.

For carrying the terms and conditions of this order into execution, this shall be sufficient warrant and authority.

Per curiam,
O. Clare Kent
President Judge.

Memoir

To the Honorable Oldare Hunt, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Crawford County, Pennsylvania:

Your Committee appointed to present a Memorial on the death of Lewis Walker, respectfully reports as follows:

Lewis Walker was the son of Nathan Updegraff Walker and Melvina Brown Walker, born at Wellsville, Ohio, on June 4, 1855, where his father owned and operated a clay product manufacturing plant. His father also had other business interests in Pittsburgh and in the upper Ohio Valley. He belonged to a Welsh-Quaker family, early citizens of Pennsylvania, a former Lewis Walker settling near Philadelphia in 1686.

At the age of sixteen years, Lewis Walker entered Beaver College, Beaver, Pennsylvania, and a year later moved to Meadville and became a student in Allegheny College, from which he was graduated in the Class of 1877. From 1872 until his death he was a citizen of Meadville. On December 5, 1876, by order of David Derickson, Esq., Chairman of the Examining Committee of Crawford County Bar, Lewis Walker was registered as a student of law under instruction of G. W. Delamater, Esq. On February 25, 1884, on motion of H. L. Richmond and report of Examining Committee, he was admitted to the practice of law, of the several Courts of this county.

Shortly after his registration as a student of law he was married to Susan Adelaide Delamater, daughter of Honorable George B. Delamater, and a family long prominent in this County. To this marriage were born three children, Lewis, Jr., Wallace Delamater, and Alice, later Mrs. Lewis Soles, all of whom are now deceased.

From the beginning of his professional life, Colonel Walker displayed a specialized talent in business negotiation, which took him more and more away from the practice of law. He made an important play in the development of the oil, natural gas and railroad industries in this section of the country and was extremely successful therein.

He was for many years a Trustee of Allegheny College and became one of its principal benefactors. In 1937 he received the Alumni award for "Services to Alma Mater." He was a member of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity, always maintaining his interest therein, and was at one time a National Vice President thereof.

He was equally prominent in the affairs of his church—the Park Avenue Congregational, of which he was a charter member and for ending years he was Superintendent of its Sunday School.

To the Honorable O Blare Kent, President Judge of said Court:

The Committee appointed by the Crawford County Bar Association to prepare a memorial for the late Almon George Richmond, a member of the Crawford County Bar, respectfully submits the following:

Almon George Richmond was born August 14, 1848, the son of Hiram L. and Maria Shryock Richmond. He attended the Meadville Schools and was graduated from Allegheny College in 1870. On August 6, 1873, he was admitted to the Bar of Crawford County, Penna, upon motion of the Honorable David Derickson. In 1884, he was elected District Attorney of Crawford County, and served for one term in this office with distinction. In 1918 he was elected City Solicitor of the City of Meadville and served in that capacity for six years. He was appointed by the United States District Court, as Referee in Bankruptcy for Crawford County and served as Referee for thirty-seven years. On August 19, 1882, he was married to Mary Grayson, daughter of Thomas Grayson, the Editor and proprietor of the Crawford Democrat. He died at his home on December 17, 1938, survived by his widow and daughter, Mrs. Gail Richmond.

During his entire legal career Mr Richmond was regarded by his brethren at the Bar and by the public in general as an example of the highest type in the legal profession. He firmly believed that integrity was the first requisite of a lawyer and that service to the community was more important than financial gain.

He was always especially interested in the newly admitted members of the Bar and was never too busy to help them with advice and suggestions. He possessed a kindly humor that was a delight to his friends and associates.

Early in life he became interested in art and devoted most of his spare time to this pursuit. He had a very completely equipped studio in his home and left many beautiful paintings depicting life in the early days of Meadville and Crawford County. Many of his paintings were humorous. A notable example was "The dissemination of Political Information" which showed a politician in the back woods in the act of distributing money to some of the voters. Among his masterpieces is one portraying Farnsworth's Charge at Gettysburg, which now hangs in the Soldiers Memorial at Pittsburgh. Another is Marching Through Georgia, which adorns the walls of the Union Veterans Memorial Hall.

The passing of Almon George Richmond is a loss to the Crawford County Bar and to the entire community which can not be replaced. Of him it can be truly said that he was a loving husband and father, a fine lawyer and a gentleman.

Your Committee therefore, moves your Honorable Court for an order directing this memorial to be spread in full upon the minutes

The President Judge of this Judicial District and members of the Crawford County Bar Association are now gathered here to listen to a memorial or eulogium (among other deceased members) upon the life of Albert L. Thomas, The Leader of this Bar; who was born February 11, 1878, in Woodcock Township, this County.

His parents were Washington Thomas and Sarah Thomas, of sturdy and worthy Welsh descent.

He was educated in the public schools of the Township and then at the end of which time, he entered Allegheny College where he studied for three years.

After which time he himself taught school for four years, and then began the reading of law in the offices first of Haskins and McClintock, Esqs., and later in the law offices of Frank Rae, and was admitted to the Bar of this county, on December 11, 1905.

In 1911, he was elected District Attorney for this county and after serving this term, he satisfied his fellow citizens so well that they elected him for a second term which he served in full, with great satisfaction to the citizens of this county.

Upon the death of William Tillman, the great Chief Justice of Pennsylvania, the bar association of Philadelphia requested Hon. Horace Binney, who as most of us believe, was the gratest lawyer which Pennsylvania ever produced, to deliver such eulogium and when Mr. Binney arose in a meeting of the bar of Philadelphia to do so he opened his remarks with these words:-

> If the reputation of the living were the only source from which the honor of our race is derived, the death of an eminent man would be a subject of immitigable grief. It is the lot of few to attain great distinction, before Death has placed them above the distorting medium, through which men are seen by their contempories. It is the lot of still fewer, to attain it by qualities which exalt the character of our species. Envy denies the capacity of some, slander stigmatizes the principles of others, fashion gives an occasional currency to false pretensions, and the men by whom the age is hereafter to be known, are often to much in advance of it to be discernible by the common eye. All these causes combine to reduce the stock of living reputation, as much below the real merits of the age as is below the proper dignity of man; and he who should wish to elevate his spirit by great examples of wisdom

To the Honorable O. Clare Kent, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Crawford County.

The Committee appointed by the Crawford County Bar Association to prepare a suitable memorial for the late George Frank Brown, respectfully reports:—

George Frank Brown was born in Butler, Penna, on August 19, 1873, son of James A. and Mary N. Brown, and came to Titusville with his parents when an infant. He attended the City Schools and was graduated with the High School Class of 1891.

In November, 1890, Mr. Brown registered as a student of law in the courts of Crawford County, and entered the offices of the late Roger Sherman, a leading Titusville attorney at that time, for the study of law. He was admitted to practice in Crawford County on February 25, 1895, at the age of 21, being the youngest attorney to be admitted to the bar up to that time in Crawford County.

In 1898, Mr. Brown was appointed Titusville City Solicitor and served for about ten years, during which period he appeared for the City before the United States Supreme Court in litigation regarding the right of a City to levy a mercantile tax, in which the Court decided in favor of the City.

Mr. Brown was always an ardent Democrat in politics and for many years was a leader in the City and County organizations. He attended the Democratic National Convention in St Louis in 1916, which nominated Woodrow Wilson for a second term.

Mr. Brown was methodical about many things, and over a long period of years he amassed many newspaper clippings about Titusville and the famous law cases of the Oil Region, which he had pasted in scrapbooks. This collection had proved to be of much interest and of considerable reference value over a long period of years.

George Frank Brown was an able adversary, and was well versed in the law. He possessed a keen mind, and was very meticulous and painstaking in the preparation of his legal papers. He enjoyed a good practice during his service as attorney, and helped rich and poor alike, and many law suits were avoided through his advice to settle controversies amicably if possible.

Mr. Brown was genial in his manner, always a gentleman, and an intelligent conversationalist, with a fund of information on almost any subject, political, literary or religious.

George Frank Brown died at the home of his sister in Cleveland, Ohio, on May 12, 1941.

It is fitting, as well as conformable to our time honored usage, that when one of our fellow members of the Bar passes from our midst to answer the last call of death, that we should pause from the toils and struggles of the day and pay our respects to his memory. As we look back to the days when George Frank Brown was a forceful and prominent member of this Bar, we present herewith our memorial to him to be recorded in the minutes of this Court, where was for many years an energetic and courageous officer.

Respectfully submitted,
R. B. Mahaffey

And now, May 27, 1943, the foregoing memoir having been presented and read in open Court by R. B. Mahaffey, Esq., of the Committee appointed by the Bar Association, whereupon it is ordered that the same be received and filed, spread at length upon the records of the Court, and that a copy thereof be furnished by the Prothonotary to the family of the deceased.

To the Honorable O. Clare Kent, President Judge:

Your committee on resolutions submits the following tribute:

Charles Wilbur Benedict, son of Leander and Julia Winans Benedict, born in Trumbull County, Ohio, September 1, 1862, and, except Eugene Mackey, of Titusville, the oldest practicing member of the Crawford County Bar, died at his home in Titusville, August 20, 1941, aged 81 years, leaving to survive him, his widow, Julia Orwig Benedict, a daughter, Mrs. Howard Brown, and a daughter of a former marriage, Mrs. Robert Ferguson.

Mr. Benedict's parents moved from Ohio to Pleasantville, Pa., when Charles was three years of age. He grew up, receiving the limited advantages of a village schooling. After which he registered as a student of law with the Honorable Lucius Beebe. After this apprenticeship he was admitted to the practice of law January 10, 1887. He was therefore a member of this Bar for more than fifty four years. The record of his admission shows that he came from Venango County. He opened his office at once in Titusville and with the exception of two years when he was located in the State of Georgia, he lived and conducted his law practice to the time of his death, from his office in the City of his adoption.

Realizing the temptation of a biographer to either become a cold analyst or a warm eulogist, we will endeavor to avoid these extremes.

Of all the legal cases Mr. Benedict conducted, the Canadohta Lake case would perhaps be recalled by him with the most mellowing reflections. The Canadohta Club claimed the Lake exclusively as a patentee of the State of Pennsylvania. The question involved was the power of the State to terminate its trusteeship for the people by alienating the lake to a private patentee or grantee. Incidental to the determination of whether the State possessed the power of alienation was the question of the navigability of the waters involved. Collateral to the entire legal controversy was the determination of the word navigable. The Courts of Pennsylvania had never, prior to the Conneaut Lake case, decided about 1910 or 1911, attempted to define this term as applicable to inland waters.

Webster could define it, but our Courts were not required to accept Webster. In the Canadohta Lake case B. B. Ruggles was arrested as a trespasser, he being found upon the lake. Defendant insisted that this lake was not only navigable according

To the Honorable O. Blare Kent Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Crawford County:

The Committee named by the Crawford County Bar Association to prepare a memorial for William J. Sirdevan, respectfully submits to your Honorable Court the following minute to his memory:-

William Joseph Sirdevan was born at Boughton, Cherrytree Township, Venango County near Titusville on the 23d day of March, 1878, and he departed this life on the 6th day of March, 1943, at Titusville, Crawford County, Pennsylvania, where he had practiced law for a period of almost thirty-four years preceding his death. He is survived by two brothers, Michael J. Sirdevan of Titusville, Pennsylvania, and David F. Sirdevan, of Springfield, Illinois.

He received his formal education in the public schools of Cherrytree Township, Venango County, Titusville High School, and the Cornell University College of Law at Ithaca, New York, from which he was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Laws on June 21, 1900. Having passed the examinations of the Board of Law Examiners of the State of New York, he was admitted to practice in all the Courts of that State, on March 13, 1901, and thereafter engaged in the general practice of law in Buffalo and Niagara Falls, New York, for several years. Following his admission to the Bar of Crawford County, Pennsylvania, on May 10, 1909, he continued with the practice of law in all of the State, with offices at Titusville, until the time of his death.

He was known and recognized for many years as a leading attorney in the City of Titusville and in Crawford County. He had a very keen and active mind and was unusually well grounded in the basic principles of the law; his manner of expression was clear and concise and his legal papers were exceedingly well prepared; he was an energetic and conscientious practitioner of the law. He believed implicitly in the law and at all times upheld the recognized ethics of the profession. His activities in Court and trial work carried him into the surrounding counties where was well and favorably known. He was a worthy opponent in any contest, but he was always courteous and respectful to the Court, to other attorneys, and, in fact to every one with whom he came in contact. It can never be said of him that he resorted to sharp practice to win

a member of the Bar

He was active in the affairs of the Pennsylvania National Guard and in 1890 was appointed Colonel by Gov. James A. Beaver.

In 1893, while visiting the Columbian Exhibition at Chicago he became interested in a display by Whitcomb L. Judson, of what turned out to be the "Hookless Fastener".

He became intensely interested therein and entered into a relationship with Judson and devoted almost all of his entire business time and attention to this from that time on until his death, building up an industry which has become "Big Business".

In 1913, Colonel Walker organized the new industry into the "Hookless Fastener Company, had it incorporated in Pennsylvania, became its President, which position he held until his death, and moved the company to Meadville.

Colonel Walker was interested and active in all civic matters pertaining to the welfare of his community. He was a leader in every field into which he entered, and maintained his welfare throughout his entire life.

Although he had not been engaged actively in the practices of law for many years nevertheless his interests in law and in the local Bar Association continued. He attended the social functions of the Bar and was always glad to talk to any of the lawyers and to give them advice.

Colonel Walker's memory will long remain green with all who knew him. He was a fulfillment of the American dream, and his life should be a challenge and inspiration to those who come after him.

In closing, we beg to quote briefly a statement of one of his close friends at his funeral services:

> "All to often in our day there is a disposition to pillory men of leadership and ability, to envy those of superior stature and strength, to covet what is not our own. But no one who knew Lewis Walker begrudged him any part of his success. Men remembered the impractical dream which he would not abandon, his dogged perseverance in the face of repeated failures and his long and courageous struggle until his dreams came true and his prophecies became facts. Thus the record of his life lifted him above envy and won for him universal respect, affection and praise."

wisdom, of genius, and of patriotism, if he could not derive them from the illustrious dead, would have better reason than the son of Philip, to weep at the limits which confined him. To part with the great and good from a world which thus wants them, and not to receive thereafter the refreshing influence of their purified and exalted fame, would be to make Death almost the master of our virtue, as appears to be of our perishable bodies.

The living and the dead are, however, but one family, and the moral and intellectual affluence of those who have gone before, remains to enrich their posterity. The great fountain of human character lies beyond the confines of life, where the passions cannot invade it. It is in that region, that among innumerable proofs of man's nothingness, are preserved the records of his immortal descent and destiny. It is there that the spirits of all ages, after their sun is set, are gathered into one firmament, to shed their unquenchable lights upon us. It is in the great assembly of the dead, that the philosopher and the patriot, who have passed from life, complete their benefaction to mankind, by becoming imperishable examples of virtue.

Beyond the circle of private affections which can not choose but shrink from the inroads of death, there is no grief then for the departure of the eminently good and wise. No tears but those of gratitude should fall into the graves of such as are gathered in honor of their forefathers. By their now unenvied virtues and talents, they have become a new possession of their posterity, and when we commemorate them, and pay the debt which is their due, we increase and confirm our own inheritance."

This committee, therefore, now presents and submits to the assembled members of the bar association the following set of resolutions as setting forth the strong affection and warm feeling which we entertain for our departed brother:

Resolved, That the members of the bar of Crawford County received with a sense of profound regret the intelligence of the death of Albert L. Thomas; which occured on May 9, 1942; at the time of his death he was a member of this bar and an eminently distinguished and successful practitioner in many of the other counties of the Commonwealth and also in the Federal Courts of this district and circuit, both trial and appellate; and

Resolved

Resolved, That the memory of the deceased deserves to be cherished with the utmost respect by the members of this bar and the other brothers as that of a lawyer profoundly missed in the sience of our profession and worthy to be ranked with the ablest of our county, our commonwealth and our country, and in the other relations of life as an eminent and most worthy citizen.

It is proper that we should set out in this memorial one or more instances of his great ability as a trial lawyer and the length and breadth to which in this commonwealth his reputation as an outstanding trial lawyer has extended. I refer in particular to the Delayer Massacre trial in which the feeling of the neighborhood and of the average citizen was outstandingly against him. It is a wonder with the bitter feeling against him he was not himself murdered, but notwithstanding this bitter feeling against him and whomsoever should prosecute the murderers the Attorney General of the State, an official of an entirely different political party, selected him to prepare and try this celebrated and dangerous case. The Attorney General did not make a mistake. He prepared this case to the limit, there was no point he overlooked and when the case came for trial there was not a single point he had not thoroughly examined, considered and for which he had not made full preparation. This case gave him a reputation in that part of the State which will never be lived down, he stands there as an outstanding and forceful trial lawyer.

There was also another case, known as the Myers case, of a young man convicted in one of the southeastern counties of the State where the defendant was found guilty and sentenced to death. His mother after the sentence was pronounced came to Meadville and almost overcome with her feelings for her son and the disasterous end as he viewed the trial, begged our departed brother to take the matter to the Pardon Board, which he did. On the day upon which the case came for hearing, I happened to be in Harrisburg and I went up to the room where the pardon board was sitting and heard the argument which Mr. Thomas presented to the Board. I took a seat in the audience and a gentleman sat down on my right, a total stranger to me. Soon another man came in and took a second seat on my left, he also was an entire stranger to me. One of them leaned across the front of me and inquired of the other Who was the man addressing the Board? The other man replied in front of me so that I heard the whole conversation, "that is Albert Thomas, the greatest trial lawyer in the State of Pennsylvania." Both of these men were intelligent men, where they came from I do not know and I have never seen them since. This shows that Albert was known as an outstanding lawyer both at the trial table as well as in the appellate courts throughout the State. I could detail also the tax case at Kane where he was opposed by Margiotti, and got back a large tract of land sold for taxes.

To his grieving widow, whose sorrow cannot be lightened by being so largely shared by the surviving members of the bar of this Court and of other bars of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and by the sorrow of the many clients whom he served so well and who will sadly miss his counsel and advice in their daily affairs and business,- we extend our heartfelt condolences.

Mingling our sorrows with those of this Court and its officers, we ask that this memorial which but faintly portrays our sense of his worth and his service and feebly as it expresses our affection and our sorrow for him,- may be filed in the archives of this Honorable Court, and may be spread at length upon its records, and a copy thereof delivered to his widow.

according to Webster, but navigable according to Blakestone, hence the property of all the people. Defendant therefore, proceeds to buttress his premise that the State was without power to terminate its perpetual trusteeship for the people by asserting its navigability, and supporting this assertion by an array of irrefutable testimony as to its actual former extensive navigation.

The case was tried at No. 24 September Sessions, 1910, The lake, in fact, had been navigated in the eighties by a couple of old non-descript steamers. At the time of the trial of this case these old boats were no longer in existence. All the captains and mates and nearly all the passengers were dead; the log books were not obtainable. The captains, the mates, the passenger lists, the log books and the ships had gone upward or downward for upwards of 20 years, and but few of the passengers, old and hoary, remained, the glorious history of a glamorous past must not be allowed to perish, that history must be refabricated on the loom of tradition. Numerous witnesses whetted up their memories or imagination to recall or conjure up the required facts. The presentation of this testimony may have been inspired by the zeal of the defenders of a domain God had given them. Fanned by the fury of this zeal it may have arizen as spontaneously as mushrooms moist from the dews of heaven. The cunning of counsel may not have conceived it, but merely have responded to an irresistible surge of his clients.

This testimony was to the effect that in those old days these steamers carried as high as 45,000 to 66,000 people annually, over and upon this lake.

It was a formidable tho a weird skeleton of facts- not so convincing but quite irrefutable on the part of the complainant, the State's patentee,

The case was decided- against the Commonwealth's power to alien this lake to any private donee or patentee, and that the lake was navigable and open to all the people.

An appeal was taken from this judgment but withdrawn before hearing in the Appellate Court. The nightmare of 45,000 to 66,000 people taking annual passage on these ancient steamers so paralized the litigious zeal of the patentee that it gave up in sheer disgust.

It is quite conceivable that Charles entertained himself with many a hearty laugh over the traditional history he rewrote about the ancient navigation of this beautiful lake.

His legal career, a lucrative one, was long, varied and extensive. His personality was pleasing. His reservoir of intellectual good judgment was never exhausted, a convincing speaker, a persuasive pleader, all these constituted a heritage one might well covet to possess and enjoy.

Besides his natural intelligence the strong points in his make-up were his equibility, his cordiality, his professional courtesy, his humor his loyalty to the Court and Bar- In other words, his capacity for Comradeship.

It's a great achievement in life to learn how to live with others in the atmosphere of a democratic equation. Charles W. Benedict had these qualities and attained this achievement to a marked degree- We are missing his cheer.

To his family we extend our sincere sympathy.

to win his point, his honesty and integrity being always above reproach. His humor, his kind and jovial nature, his loyalty and deep sense of responsibility won for him many friends as evidenced by his wide acquaintanship and his active part in religious, fraternal and other organizations. He was considerate and cooperative with other members of the Bar and held the respect of all with whom he came in contact in his practice. When younger members of the Bar approached him with their troublesome problems, he would willingly take time from his own work to give them the benefit of his wide experiences and basic knowledge of the law.

Being naturally kind and sympathetic, he had an unusually clear understanding of human nature and the adversities of life, and he saw and appreciated in his profession the opportunity to serve his fellowman irrespective of financial benefits to himself. He befriended the unfortunate and no one was ever turned away who came to him in need of assistance. In many instances he followed through long and tedious Court proceedings for the benefit of clients knowing full well that he would receive no compensation for his services. Many people will long hold in grateful memory his wise counsel and acts of kindness in helping them over critical situations in their lives.

While we grieve at the loss of a friend and associate, we shall well remember the legacy of loyalty and integrity which William J. Sirdevan has left with us, and as a record of the respect with which we hold him, the Committee respectfully moves your Honorable Court that this memorial to him be adopted, that it be ordered spread upon the permanent records of this Court and that a copy be sent to his family.
