Per Curiam - Herbert A. Mook, P.J.

March 27, 1951, Order filed.

Order: Mook, P.J. This action in divorce was instituted on December 8, 1950 by the plaintiff against the defendant on the grounds of desertion.

The only difficulty with the case is that there was on that date and still is another action pending between the same parties at No. 279 September Term 1948. That action was originally instituted on the grounds of indignities to the person and thereafter amended to include the charge of desertion. A rule for alimony pendente lite and counsel fees was filed and thereafter the Court entered an order, which is now in full force and effect although we have no knowledge if the order has been complied with.

It is improper to institute a second action between the same parties based on the same facts when there is already an identical action pending before the Court. However, the second action may have been instituted through oversight of counsel and accordingly, we will continue this case until the next list in order that the plaintiff's counsel may determine whether he desires to proceed on the first action or ask leave of Court to discontinue it. For the right to discontinue a previous action and proceed on another, see Hogue vs. Hogue, 63 D & C, 369.

In Memoriam

Otto Alfred Stolz
late of the Crawford
County Bar
Entered December 8, 1950

Pro. Slayton #8.50

In Memoriam.

Today we are met to record in the archives of this Court the life and achievements of our fellow-member of the Bar, the late Otto Alfred Stolz, and to pay homage to his high professional and personal character, his devotion to the practice of law and his long and honorable history as a member of our Bar.

Otto Alfred Stolz was born in Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, on April 2, 1863. He was a son of Andrew and Magdalena Brant Stolz and he moved to Vernon Township, Crawford County, with his parents when he was four years of age and he continued to reside in Vernon Township for the rest of his life. His father, Andrew Stolz, maintained a brickyard in Kerrtown at or near the present site of the Meadville Malleable Iron Company and the brick from this yard is in many of the old buildings in Meadville at the present time.

When he was only fourteen, Mr. Stolz worked as a boss in his father's brickyard. He attended the Meadville Public Schools and entered Allegheny College at the age of fifteen. When he was about twenty, Mr. Stolz ran his father's coal office and also had a small grocery store at the corner of Market and Chestnut Streets. Soon thereafter, he decided to study law and he pursued his law studies in the office of the late Judge John J. Henderson. He was admitted to the Crawford County Bar on November 18, 1889 and in that year he was appointed United States Gauger in which office he served until September 1, 1893 when he opened his law office in Meadville and, in conjunction therewith, he conducted a general insurance business for many years. He was admitted to practice before the Supreme and Superior Courts for the Western District of Pennsylvania.

Order:- Mook, P. J. This action of divorce was filed on February 6, 1951, and the affidavit to the Complaint was taken on February 5, 1951. The Complaint charged indignities to the person. However, reading the testimony discloses that the main indignity complained of occurred on the Friday before Valentine's Day in 1951, which would be February 9th. The testimony further discloses that the parties lived together at least until February 12, 1951, or a week after the Complaint was filed.

We think the Court is entitled to have this confusion concerning the dates of the separation of the parties cleared up, as it is manifestly improper for the parties to continue to live together after an action for divorce has been instituted.

The case is, therefore, referred back to E. Lowry Humes, Master, in order that another hearing may be held to clear up the inconsistencies between the testimony and the Complaint.

Order:- Mook, P.J. This action of divorce was instituted by the Plaintiff against the Defendant April 16, 1951. The Sheriff's Return shows that the complaint was served upon the defendant, George H. Wells on the same day at 4:00 o'clock P.M. by Faye Keenan, deputy Sheriff of Crawford County, in the corridor of the Court House at Meadville, Pennsylvania.

This fact in itself renders some suspicion of collusion, or at least a secret agreement between the parties to obtain a divorce. At least we are of the opinion that the Court is entitled to know what knowledge, if any, the plaintiff has of how the complaint happened to be served so promptly and so conveniently.

The case is, therefore, referred back to F. Joseph Thomas, Master, to make inquiry concerning this fact.

June 12, 1951, See Order filed. Per Cur.

Mook, P.J. Order:- This action of divorce was filed on April 27, 1951. Both parties to the action are minors, only eighteen years of age. The Sheriff's return shows that the complaint was served upon the minor defendant on April 28, 1951, or one day after the Complaint was filed by the Sheriff, on Center Street on the north side of the Court House. This fact in itself is a circumstance which indicates some understanding between the parties to procure a divorce, - at least the Court is entitled to have it explained. On the same day, to wit: April 28, 1951, the minor defendant apparently went to the office of Kenneth W. Rice where a petition was prepared setting forth that he was the defendant in the case; that he is a minor not represented by a Guardian; and that he desired to have a Guardian appointed for him in the action. In his petition he nominated Kenneth W. Rice, attorney-at-law for his Guardian. This petition was presented to the Court on May 4, 1951, whereupon we appointed Attorney Rice as the Guardian. On the same day Mr. Rice accepted service of the complaint by writing the same upon the back of the original complaint filed in the office of the Prothonotary. XXX The record in this case is, therefore, referred back to Leland J. Culbertson in order that a further hearing may be held, at which time it is suggested that he summon the Guardian Ad Litem of the defendant before him and have it appear of record that the minor defendant's interests have been protected. Per Curiam, Herbert A. Mook, President Judge

October 31, 1952, Order filed:— Mook, P. J. The evidence in this case shows that the defendant is in the military service. Some reference is made in the report of the Master to the fact that Fred C. Kiebort, Attorney-at-Law, exhibited a Power of Attorney authorizing him to act as counsel in the case. However, no appearance was entered upon the Appearance Docket of the Court by Mr. Kiebort. Therefore, we must conclude that the defendant is entitled to the provisions of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act which prevents the entry of a default judgment against him.

Furthermore, a reading of the testimony and the report of the Master has not convinced us that the allegations of fraud and indignities to the person alleged in the complaint have been sustained by the evidence.

October 31, 1952, Order filed: Mook, P.J. The Master in this case apparently was under the impression that the defendant's attorney had withdrawn his appearance in the case, and therefore, failed to give him notice of the hearing as required by our Rule of Court. However, an examination of the papers and the docket entries in the case reveals that the defendant's attorney has never withdrawn his appearance and is, therefore, entitled to notice of the hearin

If this were a mere oversight we might permit it to be corrected. However, the defendant called on the Court in Chambers and informed the Court that she did not understand why she had never received any notice of the hearing as she desired to attend.

This case is, therefore, referred back to the Master in order that notice may be given to the defendant or her attorney as required by our Rule of Court.

In Memoriam

Otto Alfred Stolz,
late of the Crawford
County Bar

Of No. 43 February Term, 1951

Crawford Store where he kept his office from 1893 until 1945 when his office was taken over by additions to the Crawford Store and he then moved into the second floor of the Flood Building where he maintained his office until his death. Until 1947 he walked from his home in Kerrtown to his office and back every day. Stories are told in Kerrtown that housewives set their clocks by Mr. Stolz' goings and comings. He was as precise and businesslike in his law practice as he was in his other habits and his clients benefitted by his prompt service.

During his later years, his practice was confined largely to estate tax work and corporation business. He was a sound and conservative investment counsel and all of his clients profited by his conservative judgment and knowledge of the stock market and general business conditions.

At the time of his death at the age of eighty-seven, he had been actively practising law in Crawford County for sixty-one years and all of his contemporaries had long since died. His life and practice paralleled the early industrial growth of Meadville and he represented many of the then young industries here in Meadville such as the Champion De Arment Tool Company, the Barrett Machine Tool Company, Phoenix Iron Works, Mead Penn Iron Company and others.

During the last several years of his practice, he continued to handle estates of considerable size and gave counsel and advice to his old clients. He continued in active practice until January, 1950 up until which time he came to his office every day. During all of this time and until the time of his death his mind remained clear and his judgment was excellent.

Mr. Stolz' life was long, his law practice extended from the last century to the middle of the present one, his practice was profitable because of the skill and integrity which he brought to it, he had the implicit trust and faith of his clients and his personal life and his ethics as a practioner of law will be long remembered by the Bench, the Bar and the community. That long and useful life is his memorial.
