Sept 14, 1999 Affidavit of Service file.d I, Dale A Collins, Deputy the undersigned hereby state that I served a copy of the Petition and Temporary Order in the above captioned action upon the Defendant by handing the papers to Kelly M. Frenette at teh following address: 329 Spring St Cambridge Springs, PA Dale A. collins, Deputy Courthouse, Meadville, PA
date 9/14/99

Sept. 27, 1999 Order filed. AND NOW, September 22, 1999, these cross petitions are before the Court for resolution. Each party is presented by counsel andit appears that there is a clash of personalities between the parties, even though they were living together at the time these recent events occurred, but apparently, have had a clash of personalities in the past and at least one abuse action was previously filed at AD 1998-1246 but which was apparently discontinued and Kelly Frenette paid the costs in that case and it is no longer an active adjudicated case.
The Court, after receiving extensive input from the parties andtheir counsel, determines that to air all of the personality clashes and difficulties arising between these two unmarried people would be unduly time consuming and each would be unduly time consuming and each would seize on the opportunity to stress the short comings of the other.
The parties not have separated with Everett Ashley having moved out the the jointly rented residence of the parties at 329 Spring Street, Cambridge Springs.
The Court receives considerable informal input about the alleged personality deficiencies and misconduct of the toher and does not believe that with the present stree between the parties any meaningful purpose would be served by going into lengthy hearnig on these cross abuse peittions. ACCORDINGLY, we enter the following Order: These cases are continued generally for a period of six (6) moths to March 23, 2000 on the following conditons: 1. Neither party shall contact th eother party for any purpose, and if there is a need to contact the other party, it will be done through their respective attorneys. 2. Everett Ashley hs moved out of the residence aforeaid and will not move back into the residence without moving the Court under these terms and numbers for express permission to do so, which mtion must be signed by the opposite party. 3. Neither party shall visit, writ to, contact or associate with each other in any fashion as both agree the remance has ended. 4. In the event both parties inadvertently show up at the same public establishment, they shall not talk to each other, sit next to each other, or in any way annoy or harass th eother or cause others to do so on their behalf. 5. Everett Ashley has left the domicile and advises the Court that he has left none of his property behind and he will make no claimfor any personal propertyin the dwelling house form which both parties are being evicted In this regard, the Court ntoies that Kelly M. Frenette is still residingin the former jointly occupied rental property but advises the Court that she is facing eviction and will undoubtedly have to find a new residence. 6. Everett Ashley agrees that he will not go to any barn or location where Kelly Frenette's horse is stabled for any purpose. Apparently, Everett Ashley is friendly with the stable owner where Kelly's horse is boarded, and in the event he is visiting the home of the present boarders of thehorse when Kelly Frenette arries, he will promptly leave for the udration ofher visit and will carry out no conversation with her at that location or any subsequent location where she boards her horse.
7. Costs are deferred for the periof of six (6) months, and in the event this matter comes back to Court, the Court, after hearing will determine which party or both should pay the costs inthese two cases.

Sept 17, 1999 Sheriff's Return Filed. Served Everett Ashley on Sept 14, 1999 at 5:45 PM at 334 Spring St, Cambridge Springs, PA this was served by teh State Police Dept.
So ANswers Rboert M. Stevens, Sheriff

Sept. 27, 1999 Order filed. AND NOW, September 22, 1999, these cross petitions are before the court for resolution. Each party is represented by counsel and it appears that there is a clash of personalities between the aprties, even though they were living together at the time these recent events occurred, but apparently, have had a clash of personalities in the past and at least one abuse action was previously filed at AD 1998-01246 but which was apparently discointued and Kelly Frenette paid the costs in that case and it is no longer an active adjudicated case.
The Court, after receiving extensive input form the parties and their counsel, determines that to air all of the personality clashes and difficulties arising between these two unmarried people would be unduly time consuming and each would size on the opportunity to stree the shrot comings of the other.
The parties how have separated with Everett Ashley having moved out of thejointly rented residence ofthe parties at 329 Spring Street, Cambridge Springs.
The Court recives considerable informal input about the alleged personality deficiencies and misconduct of th eother an ddoes not believe that with the preent stree between the parties any meaningful purpose would be served by going into lengthy hearings on these cross abuse petitions ACCORDINGLY, we enter the following Order: These cases are continued generally for a period of six (6) months toMarch 23, 2000 on the following conditions: 1. Neither party shall contact the other party for any purpose, and if there is a need to contact the other party, it will be done through their respective attorneys. 2. Everett Ashley has moved out of the residence aforeaid and will not move back into the residence without moving the Court under these terms and numbers for express permission to do so, which mtoion must be signed by the opposite party. 3. Neither party shall visit, writ to, contact, or associate with each other in any fashion as both agree the reomance has ended. 4. In the event both parties inadvertently show up at the same public establishment, they shall not talk to each other, sit next to each other, or in any way annoy or harass the other or cause others to do so on their behalf. 5. Evrett Ashley has left the domicle and advises the Court that he has left none of his property behind and he will make no claim for any personal proeprtyinthe dwelling house form which both parties are being evicted. In this regard,the Court notes that Kelly M. Frenette is still residinginthe former jointly occupied rental property but advises the Court that hse is facing eviction and will undoubtedly have to find a new residence. 6. Everett Ashley agrees that he will not go to any barn or location where Kelly Frenette's horse is stabled for any purpose. Apparently, Everett Ashley is friendly with the stable owner where Kelly's horse is boarded, andin the event he is visiting theh ome of thepresent boarders of thehorse whenKelly Frenette arrives, he will promptly leave for the duration of her visit and will carry out no conversation with her at that location or any subsequent location where she boards her horse. 7. costs are deferred for the period of six (6) months, and in the event this matter comes back to Court, the Court, after hearing, will determine which party or both should pay the costs in these two cases.
